PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life it not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanished and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets will help save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. Thy act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c. All druggists.—Adv.

120 Persons Attend Annual Grocers' Dinner

Serv-U-Wel Merchants Group Meet in Salem Evangelical Church Diningroom for Yearly Social Event; Program Is Feature.

More than 120 Marion Serv-U-Wel grocers, their friends and families enjoyed a six-course banquet last night. Guests were present from the Delaware Serv-U-Wel association and from Canton and Columbus.

The banquet was served at the Salem Evangelical church at 6:30 p. m. Parodies of popular songs with words to fit the grocery business were sung, Arthur Zachman, leading the singing with Dick Zachman at the piano.

[illegible] Z. Zachman, president of the Marion association, presided as toastmaster and gave a short address of welcome.

Penrett [illegible], local wholesale grocer, gave a short talk in which he brought to the attention of the grocers the fact that they won national recognition for the work of the group and that the annual report of the Marion association had been republished in the American Grocer, national grocers publication.

Reports of the state and national conventions were given by Arthur Zachman, association secretary.

Mrs Morris Kline, Mrs F. R. McDaniel and Mrs A. W. [illegible] were appointed by the president to investigate the possibility of forming a ladies auxiliary to the Marion association. Many of the associations over the state have such groups and the committee after studying these groups will call a meeting of the wives of the grocers to discuss the advisability of forming an organization here.

The remainder of the program was given over to humorous numbers. Ray F Fletcher gave an entertaining number as a takeoff on the recent Marion Star cooking school. Ray Reidenbaugh gave a comic magic act assisted by Morris Kline.

A group of popular piano numbers and song was given by Dick Zachman, after which the meeting closed with the Serv-U-Wel "fight song," the words and music of which were written by Dick Zachman.

SHOP'S FUTURE NOT SETTLED

Bucyrus Council Fails To Reach Agreement with Railroad Official.

Special To The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov 19—City councilmen last night failed to come to an agreement with New York officials in regard to the dispossession clause in the deed to the real estate on which the local New York Central shops are now located. L S Emery, general manager of the Ohio Central division requested that some action be taken to clear the deed.

That the railroad company does not intend to allow the forfeiture clause of the deed to interfere with their plans of moving a repair department to Collingwood was revealed by Mr Emery, who stated that in the event the company is dispossessed the remaining repair shops employing approximately 400 men will be forced out of the city.

That he would make no promises as to the future policies of the company nor would he assure council that within the next several years the entire shops would be moved or closed were points brought out when Emery was questioned by the councilmen.

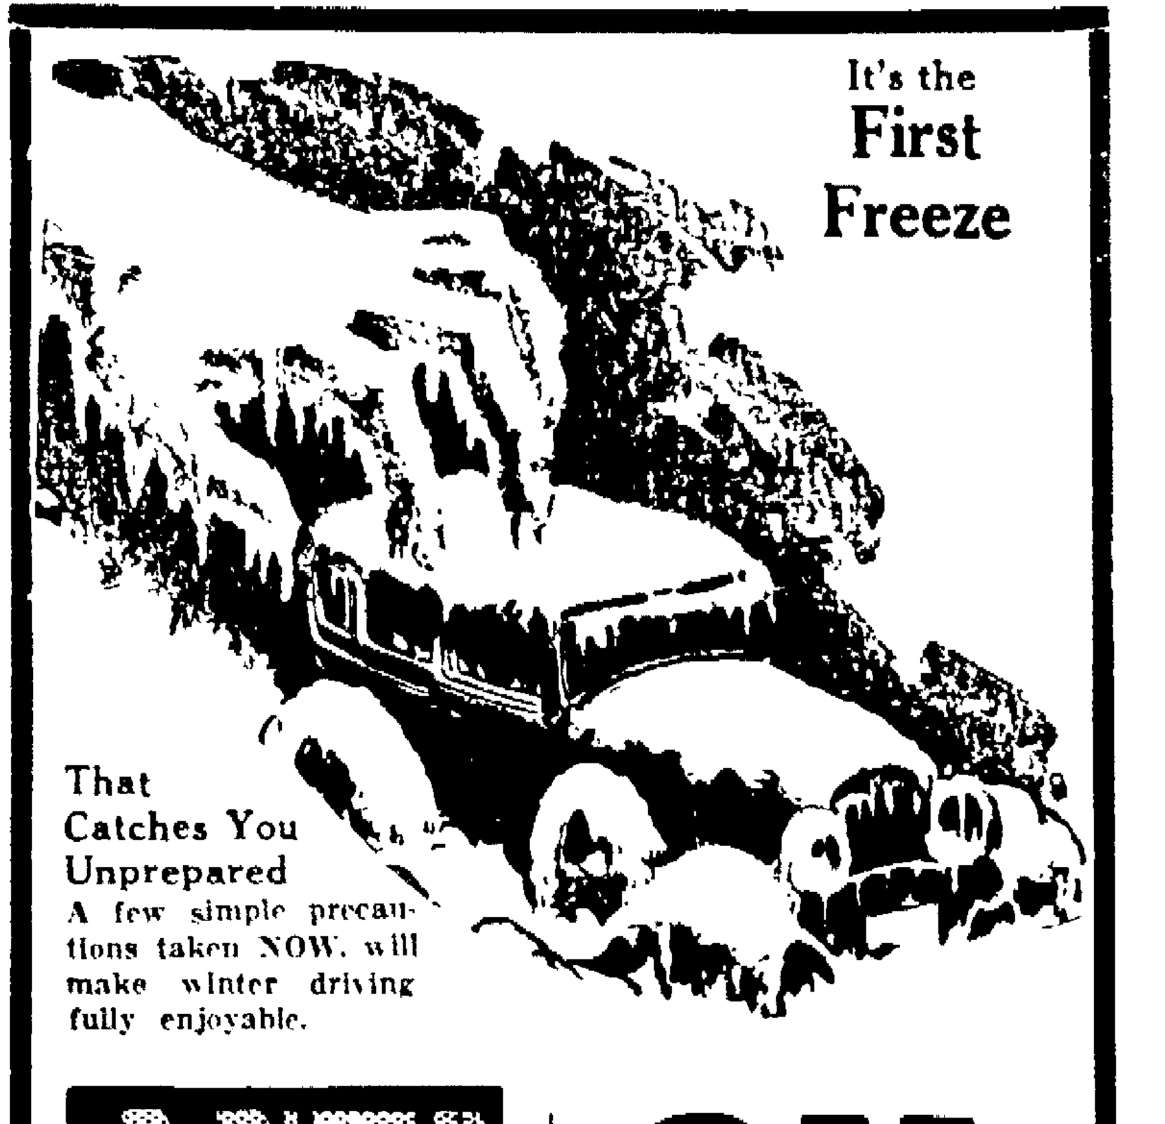
It's the First Freeze



That Catches You Unprepared
A few simple precautions taken NOW, will make winter driving fully enjoyable.

ANTI FREEZE
Let us drain your radiator, rinsing out rust, scale, and foreign matter. Then we'll fill the radiator with an anti-freeze solution such as EVEREADY PRESTONE or ALCOHOL protecting your cooling system against cold, wintry blasts.

OIL CHANGE
It is now time to have heavy summer oil drained from your crankcase. Refill with a fresh, freeflowing winter-grade oil that will correctly lubricate your motor during cold weather.

WINTERGRADE GREASE
For Transmission and Differential
Gummy gear oil in the transmission is now out of date. NOW is the time to have the transmission flushed clean and refilled with the correct oil.
Differential . . . here, too, use winter grade oil. Obtain the full power from your motor by having the correct gear oil in the diffential.

Our Complete Lubrication will protect your spring shackles and chassis parts from winter's ice, slush, and mud; reducing squeaks and rattles which indicate unnecessary wear.

Paris Fashion Dictators Say Hats Must Be Black; Marion Women Agree

AND now, we turn our attention to hats. Those chic, charming, close-fitting berets, tricorns and bicorns that will be worn this winter by Marion's smartly costumed women and girls.

Several months ago Paris designers said "black hats—and more black hats." And the prediction has proved true. For black is leading all colors for the fashionable hats. It is the last word for morning, afternoon and evening wear. Dark rich brown holds second place, with green only a few steps behind.

Hats may certainly be classed in the fashion evolution which has swept the country. Brims are a thing of the past and hat designers have frowned on the big hat, particularly for this winter season.

Fit Closely

The close fitting model with the felt turned away from the face is all that is needed to top the winter costume. The popular models are simple, yet not severe. And the most tailored types will be worn with the dress gowns.

Trimming of all kinds has also been placed in the discard. A small feather clip, a tailored bow of white or brown or perhaps a brilliant buckle, and the trimming is complete.

The majority of hats are felt. Made very tight to fit the head. Soleils and fur-felts are also in favor and the dress hats that will reach Marion within a few weeks will be of satin. These models will also be plain and close fitting.

Surrounded though we are by the winter months, there seems to be a springlike atmosphere about the natty hats. The small white bow or bright feather on the black tricorn gives it an air of spring.

For the ones fortunate enough to spend the winter months in the southern climes, the shopkeepers are showing the pastel shades. They include the dainty pinks and blues, greens, lavendars and yellows. They are brimless, and carry a strictly tailored tone.

Veil in Comeback

The bewitching veil is trying to stage a comeback after an absence of nearly 15 years. Several of the French models are designed with a fine mesh veil fastened from the inside of the crown. The veil covers only about half the face.

To be worn with the chiffon gown at affairs that border on the formal nature is the "supper hat." It is charmingly fashioned in maline. The color, of course, is black. These hats are shown in the smart hair revealing models and carry a touch of Paris.

Although black, green and brown colors seem to be the big favorites, yet there are many numbers shown in dark blue, wine colored and dark grey.

Semi-dress hats of metallic cloth in the bright shades are shown in the Marion stores. Then there is the black and brown turban effect fashioned in velvet also for dress wear, and the fur felts and metal tricorn caps.

Hats for the very young school miss have never been more youthful than this season. Many of them are berets and are made of the same material as the coat of the new winter dress. Felts in brown, tan and blue with the brim turned off the face by a small bow or feather make ideal hats for school.

Prices Attractive

Before leaving the subject of hats, something should be said about the prices. The range of prices is so extensive that the business woman or girl, no matter how modest her income, will be able to purchase one of the fashion's latest models.

Prices, merchants say, are lower than they were last year and in many instances have reached the figures that were in evidence before the war.

The best grade of hats, many of them imported models, are lower by from $5 to $7 than last year and the average hat to be worn for business wear can be secured at any of the shops at a most modest price.

If you expect to have more than one new hat in your wardrobe for the season, then let one of them at least, be the popular black.

LAST NIGHT at the THEATERS

Eddie Cantor Brings Down House

DAZZLING costumes worn by 100 chorus girls give the theater patron an eyeful in "Whoopee," Florenz Ziegfeld's all-technicolor picture which opened yesterday at the Palace and which will continue today and Thursday. The picture is released by Paramount.

Eddie Cantor is the chief "whoopee" maker in this talkie version of Owen Davis' stage play, "The Nervous Wreck," despite the fact that he is the nervous wreck himself. Dorothy Knapp, Eleanor Hunt and Paul Gregory have other leading roles.

The story concerns the efforts, performed unwittingly, of Cantor in stopping the marriage of a rancher's daughter to the county sheriff in order that the girl may marry another. The two escape in a battered flivver while the sheriff and his posse are scouring the countryside.

Cantor brings down the house when he compares scars with the rancher at whose home he and the girl stop during their flight.

EIGHT HARDING MEN TO PLAY LAST GAME

AMERICAN OLYMPIC GROUP CHOOSES TEN LEADING AMATEURS

Simpson of Ohio State on List of Outstanding Sports Figures.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 19 Close on the heels of the National Amateur Athletic Union convention, the American Olympic Association met today with prospects of a more harmonious session than that of four years ago.

Members looked for no repetition of the bitter battle for control which ended in the National Collegiate Athletic Association delegates walking out of the council room at the last quadrennial meeting here.

Leaders of the A A U and the N C A A were firmly resolved to keep the hatchet buried while at the same time determined to give their respective organization as strong a voice as possible in Olympic affairs. The principal points of differences were expected to be the election of officers and a two-thirds rule embodied in the new constitution which is to be submitted.

It was by defeating the two-thirds rule in 1926 that the A A U, with the necessary majority, made the most of its numerical superiority and climbed into the driver's seat.

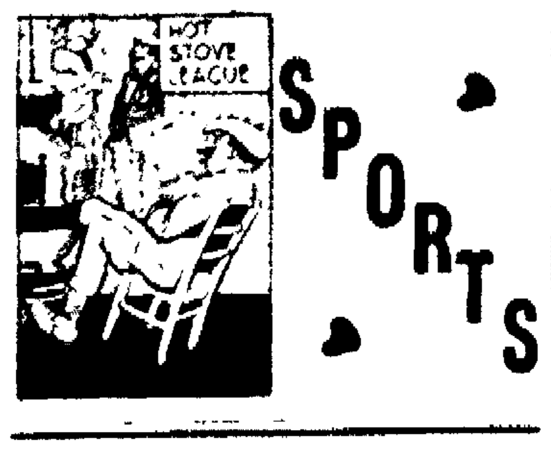
Meeting every four years, the association, headed by Dr Graeme M. Hammond, faced the task of doing in a single day all the organizing groundwork for America's participation in the Olympic games at Los Angeles, in 1932.

At the concluding session of the A. A U convention 10 athletes were announced as adjudged the outstanding figures in American amateur sport today.

Bobby Jones' name led them all, although the committee which announced the selections stated the belief Bobby had "eliminated himself" by having withdrawn from amateur competition.

The others were: Clarence De Mar, marathon runner, Miss Helene Madison, swimmer; Mrs Helen Wills Moody, tennis queen; Barney Berlinger, track and field; Miss Stella Walsh, sprinter; Ray Ruddy, swimmer; Tommy Hitchcock, polo ace; Harlow Rothert, Stanford shot putter and all-around athlete, and George Simpson, Ohio State's sprinter who has covered 100-yards in 9 2-5 seconds, with starting blocks.

The 10 athletes will be awarded the James E. Sullivan memorial trophy.



BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

THIS Saturday will witness the closing of all except one major football battle in the N C O league and will also see the conclusion of the majority of the big college games. Of course the one major test of the year, the Rose bowl game on New Year's day will be [illegible] for some time but as far as championships go they will be decided by the time darkness descends Saturday.

Games in the N C O league Saturday call for Ashland high school to tackle the little Mt Gilead outfit in what should be a walkaway for the N C O team. It is possible though that Coach Rowe Starn of the Ashlanders will save a lot of his first team strength for the battle on Thanksgiving with Mansfield.

Galion has already closed its season and is sitting back hoping for Ashland to take the Tygers into camp in the Turkey day game. A win for Ashland will give Galion the title of the circuit while a defeat will put Mansfield on top for the second consecutive year.

* * *

Bucyrus will trek to Shelby Saturday to do battle with the lowly Shelby Whippets. Indications point to an easy victory for Bucyrus but it is possible the Whippets may slow the Redmen attack enough to hold the score to a small figure. Such is doubtful.

Harding High will take on Springfield on the Wildcat's gridiron in what looks like a certain beating for the locals. Harding has been improving steadily and may possibly upset the dope and give the Blue and Gold a tough battle.

* * *

Two other championships of major importance in this vicinity will be settled beyond all doubt by Saturday night. Ohio Wesleyan with a first class team will clash with the undefeated but once tied Ohio University Bobcats, to decide the championship of the B. A. A. Ohio U. is champion now and is favored to repeat for the second title but Coach Gauthier of Wesleyan has a bad habit of upsetting supposed champions. The game promises to be a struggle even if Ohio is the pre game favorite.

* * *

A championship in which no Ohio team figures but which holds a lot of interest locally will be decided when Michigan takes on the luckless Chicago Maroons in the Windy City. Michigan is trailing in the Big Ten standings by one game for the simple reason that Northwestern has played one more game than have the Wolverines. The Wildcats are assured of a tie for the Western conference bunting. If Chicago defeats Michigan in a miracle exhibition the Wildcats will be sole claimants to the crown.

* * *

The Big Three is no more but just the same a game will be played in the east Saturday that amounts virtually to a Big Three championship battle. Harvard meets Yale. Princeton has been defeated by Yale and the game this week-end will just about ascertain which of the former select trio boasts the best football team. Yale on paper is stronger but Barry Wood and his Crimson cohorts may throw a monkey wrench in the machinery and beat the Eli team.

It is the prediction of this writer that when the Saturday games are all completed Ohio U., Michigan and Northwestern, and Yale will be champions of their respective circuits.

WASHINGTON STATE TO PLAY IN ANNUAL ROSE BOWL BATTLE

Coast Champs To Name Either Alabama or Northwestern as Opponents.

By The Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif, Nov 19 The institution which sent a mighty football aggregation here New Year's day, 1916, to inaugurate the annual tournament of roses gridiron classic with a western triumph—Washington State college again will carry the honors of the far west into the intersectional fray Jan 1.

Following precedent Hal C Reynolds president of the tournament association, in making announcement of the selection last night, left the matter of choosing an opponent in the hands of the Washington State officials.

While no official action is expected immediately, it was understood here that either Northwestern or Alabama would get the call to oppose the Cougars should they finish the season undefeated.

Washington State won the Pacific coast championship last Saturday by defeating Washington 3 to 0 completing an undefeated season.

Northwestern faces two obstacles before being in a position to accept a possible invitation. The Wildcats must defeat Notre Dame Saturday and then obtain sanction from the Big Ten conference. Not since Ohio State lost to California in the Rose tournament game of 1921 28 to 0, has this permission been available.

Alabama needs only to defeat Georgia on Thanksgiving day to clear all obstacles to a third appearance of the Crimson tide in the annual classic. The Southerners defeated Washington 20 to 19 in 1926, and tied Stanford 7 to 7 the year following.

CADETS LOSE STAR HALFBACK OF TEAM

Cyril Letzelter Dropped from Army Squad Because of Age Limit.

By The Associated Press

WEST POINT N Y, Nov. 19 Army's football squad has lost one of its best halfbacks, Cyril Letzelter of Pittsburgh, former star at Carnegie Tech.

Letzelter was dropped from the Army squad yesterday when military academy officials discovered he was over the age limit of 22 years when he entered the academy in July, 1929.

In his application for admission, Letzelter gave the date of his birth as Aug 8, 1907. Investigation has revealed however, that he was born on Dec 8, 1906 and thus was some months over the maximum age limit when he entered the academy. He told officials he had been raised from childhood by an uncle and aunt and always had understood the date of his birth was that he had given in his application.

Accepting his statement, academy authorities decided to retain him as a cadet, but ruled it would be "against the best interests of the academy" to allow him to participate in any more varsity athletics.

Cochran Takes Big Lead in Billiard Title Play

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Nov 19 With one third of the long grind behind him, Welker Cochran held a lead of 630 points over Willie Hoppe in their world's 18.1 balkline billiard championship today.

Cochran who won the first two blocks by comfortable margins, repeated again yesterday taking the afternoon session 300 to 132 and the evening block 300 to 183. The grand totals were Cochran 1200, Hoppe 570. Eight more blocks will be played.

FOUR REGULARS LOST TO TEAM NEXT YEAR

Bush, Smith Top List of Departing First Stringers; Prospects Good.

WHEN the whistle is blown Saturday that announces the close of grid hostilities between the teams of Harding and Springfield it will terminate the scholastic football careers of eight members of the local team. Of the eight, only half can be classed as regulars, although most of the other four have played a good share of the time.

Those regulars who will dig their cleats into the sod for the local high school for the last time are Bob Bush, fullback, Bob Smith, tackle, John Sloan end, and Haver Alspach, end. Three others, Hayes Newby, end, Homer Housworth, guard or fullback and Dick Wright, halfback, have played a sufficient amount of time to have earned the coveted "H."

Four First Stringers

Bush, Smith, Alspach and Sloan have been playing in first team berths during the whole of the 1930 season. Hayes Newby commenced the year as a running mate of Alspach but later shifts relegated him to a second string post. Homer Housworth commenced play at a guard post and was later shifted to the fullback position. Wholesale juggling of the team by Coach Bohyer in an effort to discover a winning combination sent Housworth to a utility post as is also the case with Dick Wright.

Wright started the season in good fashion but his value to the team dropped considerably during the latter half. He was the only consistent ground gainer in the Findlay "farce" but his work on defense was such that he could not be left on the first string outfit. Wright is a letterman of 1929 and had his defensive work been on a par with his running game he would probably be ranked with the best of the Harding gridders.

To Get Service Letter

The faithful service of Bob Reid is expected to earn for him a letter. Reid has been a familiar man around the President practice field for three years but has never flashed sufficient ability to earn a regular berth.

Harding is assured a wealth of veteran football material for the 1931 grid campaign. Seven of the first string lineup will be back in the harness. At this early point it looks like the chief difficulty will be to find someone to fill the place of Bush at fullback. Smith will leave a large gap to be filled at a tackle post but capable candidates for that position are likely to be more plentiful than for the job left vacant in the backfield. It cannot be denied that the flanks of the Harding team this year have been the weakest posts in the lineup. Regardless of this however, the departing wingmen look better than those remaining on the squad.

Veteran Team Back

Harding will be represented by a veteran line and also an experienced backfield next year. Clay, tackle, Eckenbarger, guard, Williams, center, Jevas guard, and Guthrie, center will be back for service on the Harding forward wall. Morgan, Hunt, Lindsey, Hudson, are some of the outstanding prospective backs who will answer the call for ball toters next year.

Everything considered Harding should turn out a more powerful football team next year than it has had this season.

LATERAL PASS MAY DEFEAT YALE TEAM

Deceptive Play Gained Win for Crimson in 1929; Eli Favored.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov 19—The lateral pass as developed by Arnold Horween carried Harvard to victories over Yale in 1928 and 1929, and the chances are it will be called upon frequently when these ancient rivals get together for the forty-ninth time in the Yale bowl Saturday.

In 1928 the Elis never did find a way to stop the Crimson's favorite weapon and its complement, the fake lateral, and Harvard won 17-0. Last season the Blue was a strong favorite at game time but once more the lateral was too deceptive and the Crimson earned a 10-6 decision.

Yale holds a wide edge in victories since the series began in 1875 with a total of 27 wins 15 defeats and six ties. Since 1908 however Harvard has held the upper hand with 11 victories six defeats and three ties. The Blue will be favored to increase its advantage but by no wide odds.

Bucknell with its star back Clark Hinkle invades New York to oppose Fordham's strong array unbeaten by any eastern eleven since Georgetown walloped the Rams in November 1928. Fordham has come out of its defeat by St Mary's with confidence unimpaired and will be favored over the Bisons.

Another New York duel brings together New York university and Rutgers. At Annapolis Navy badly crippled meets the strong Maryland eleven of the Southern conference. Army with Notre Dame to be met on Nov 29, has a "breather" against Ursinus.

WHO'S NEXT?

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O, Nov 19 — Western Reserve's football team, staggering to the end of its most disastrous season in history will play its final game under its third coach.

Jack Davis, who became acting coach when Gordon Locke was forced to withdraw because of illness in the middle of the season, was removed without comment yesterday by the faculty athletic committee. Ray Dauber backfield coach, was placed in charge of the Redcats for their Thanksgiving day finale with Case.

Tommy Armour Barred from Ryder Cup Team

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 19—Friends of Tommy Armour, professional golf champion of the United States, have lost their fight to gain a position for him on the American Ryder cup team.

The Professional Golfers' Association of America, in annual convention here, last night voted that no player be permitted to compete on the team in the international matches with Great Britain unless born in America. The decision automatically barred the Detroit professional who was born in Scotland.

BISHOP-BOBCAT FRAY IS LEADING BATTLE OF SATURDAY SKED

Winner To Be Champion of B. A. A.; Ohio State Plays Illinois.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Nov 19 The eyes of Ohio's football fans turned toward Selby stadium at Delaware today and waited enthusiastically for the gridiron classic of the Buckeye state.

Probably the most important game of the year will be held there Saturday afternoon when the Ohio university Bobcats defend their Buckeye A A conference championship against the Battling Bishops of Ohio Wesleyan.

It will truly be a classic bringing together two of the best elevens in the state. Only Heidelberg, the one undefeated and untied team in the state, can share honors with Ohio and Wesleyan this year.

Wesley Fesler & Co of Ohio State, which usually occupies the center of the football stage will be out of the picture Saturday. The Buckeyes trek over to Champaign Ill for their annual clash with Bob Zuppke's Illini.

Ohio undefeated to date for the second consecutive season appears to be well on the way for another title and the highest honors in the state. The Bobcats' record was smeared a little earlier in the season when a sturdy band of gridders from West Liberty Normal fought the Green and White on even terms. That 13-13 draw is the only spot so far on a remarkable record.

Retirement May Cost Jones Place on Council

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov 19—Bobby Jones' retirement has brought up the question of his eligibility to continue to sit in the councils of the United States Golf association as a member of the executive committee.

Herbert H Ramsay, president-elect of the association has taken the position that there is no reason why Jones' withdrawal from competition should persuade him to resign from the committee.

Jones who with Harrison R (Jimmy) Johnston of St Paul, has been the only player in recent times to be selected for the executive committee may solve the whole problem by resigning.

WILDCATS, RAMBLERS IN HARD WORKOUTS

Coaches Key Players To Fighting Pitch for Important Battle.

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Nov 19—Knute Rockne's football juggernaut, 1930 model, will arrive at the cross-roads of its fight for recognition as one of the greatest, if not the greatest Notre Dame football machines to steam over the gridiron.

If the "fighting Irish, can crush the undefeated Wildcat eleven from Northwestern by a one-sided score without the services of their towheaded ace, "Jumping Joe" Savoldi, they will gain an argument that even supporters of the immortal four horsemen will find difficult to dispute.

Northwestern, with a team of about equal strength and fame with its present outfit of stars forced the "four horsemen" to a fight of their football lives to win a 13 to 6 decision back in 1924.

In the rival football camps the order was full steam ahead. Rockne swung into his stride as the dispenser of bad news by telling his players that they are about to meet the toughest opponent they have encountered this year. At Northwestern Coach Dick Hanley also used psychology to key up his players to a fighting pitch. Both teams were in good physical condition.

Michigan today settled down seriously to work for its finale against the weak Chicago team, the [illegible] between it and a share of the Big Ten championship with Northwestern. The over-confidence germ worried Coach Harry Kipke no little bit and he planned to give his players a stiff workout.

Illinois' chances of defeating Ohio State Saturday were at ebb today. Five Illini regulars, including Captain Olaf Robinson and "Chuck" Hall of the backfield were in the university hospital with injuries. Ohio State was in good condition but too confident to suit Coach Sam Willaman.

Although several Wisconsin regulars remained on the casualty list, all were expected to recover to greet the Minnesota invasion Saturday.

GRANGE FAVORS PRO FOOTBALL ELEVENS

Former Illini Star Thinks College Teams Weaker Defensively.

(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service)

NEW YORK Nov 19 The average professional football team could defeat any good college eleven in the opinion of Harold (Red) Grange. The former Wheaton, Ill, iceman should know whereof he speaks, for as the backfield ace of the Chicago Bears he has been romping through the best pro teams in the country this fall with much of the same carefree abandon which marked his career at Illinois six years ago.

The long-debated question of the relative merits of college and professional elevens is to be answered for the first time here on Dec. 14 when the New York professional Giants meet a scrambled aggregation of Notre Dame stars, past and present, in a charity game. Grange went right out on the end of a limb today in predicting that the Giants would win.

"Although a college eleven may have as much offensive power as a professional team, the latter is much better defensively," said Grange. "Some pro lines average 230 pounds and you need a stick of dynamite to dent a wall like that."

PACKERS SIGN SAVOLDI

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Nov 19—Joe Savoldi fullback and scoring ace of the Notre Dame eleven who withdrew Monday to avoid expulsion will play professional football in 1 with the Green Bay Packers, was reported today.

Polo will be played in Augusta Ga, this winter. A string of 50 to 100 ponies will be brought to the new racing club.

BUYING WAVE BOOSTS WHEAT

Wintry Weather Forecasts Causes Advance in Corn Prices.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 19—All around upturns in grain values took place early today owing largely to persistent buying on wheat future deliveries for United States government sponsored bodies.

Besides, Liverpool and Beunos Aires wheat quotations showed advances, and the corn market here was stimulated by forecasts of wintry weather over the corn belt. Starting at ⅛ off to ¼ up, Chicago wheat futures scored moderate general gains. Corn opened ⅛ to ⅞c higher and subsequently rose further.

Government sponsored purchasing of wheat future deliveries in Chicago centered chiefly in old December contracts at 73c and in new May at 76c. Meanwhile, general buying of other Chicago deliveries was helped as a result of firmness of the Winnipeg market and because of reports that absence of consent of the Canadian dominion government to guarantee a minimum price for wheat did not mean that there would be liquidating of stocks of grain of the Canadian growers' pool. In addition, Liverpool advices were current that from now on Russian shipments of wheat were expected to diminish.

On the other hand, arrivals of wheat in Winnipeg today were on a big scale, totaling 1,102 cars compared with 346 cars a year ago.

There were also reports that the Canadian pool was offering large quantities of cheap wheat to Europe, but that purchases abroad were relatively small because of increased offerings of new Australian and Argentine wheats, together with assertions that India had 37,000,000 bushels of old wheat to be sold before March. Absence of any important selling pressure was a feature much of the time in corn and oats.

Provisions were firm, responsive to strength of cereals.

WINS SUIT

Cleveland Stenographer Given $40,000 Heart Balm by Jury.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 19—Miss Elizabeth Kelley, a 24-year-old stenographer, today held a verdict of $40,000 for breach of promise on the part of Alexander C. Weizer, son-in-law of Theodore Kundtz, millionaire manufacturer.

Weizer's defense was that he went to a number of parties with Miss Kelley at which there was considerable drinking. He denied proposing marriage and his counsel termed the girl a "gold-digger."

MARTEL GRANGE MAKES 12TH GROUP IN COUNTY

Earl Douce Is Master of New Farm Body in Martel.

MARION county's twelfth grange has been organized. Martel Grange is the name of the latest addition to the rapidly growing grange family in this county.

The new organization will probably be the last one in Marion county for several years as the county is completely covered. Martel grange embraces the extreme northeast section of the county.

Officers of the grange will be installed Nov. 20 by a team from Grand Prairie grange, headed by E. A. Williams, deputy grange master for the county.

OFFICERS follow: Earl Douce, master; Harley Evon, overseer; Pearl Rorick, lecturer; J. F. Midiam, steward; Melvin Sharrock, assistant steward; Mrs. C. O. Emahiser, secretary; W. M. Bush, treasurer; Harley Rodock, chaplain; O. M. Dilsaver, gatekeeper; Ellen Lyon, Ceres; Mary Ellen Reed, Pomona; Helen Ott, Flora; Clara Rush, lady assistant steward; Mrs. Harley Rodock, reporter; H. F. Roesch, legislative agent; Z. O. Emahiser, business agent.

Meetings are being held in the Martel school auditorium for the present. Tableau work in connection with the installation will be in charge of Mrs. Ellis Epley at the head of the Claridon grange group.

Organization of the new grange, the second new one in the county this year, was accomplished largely through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Williams, deputy grange master for the county and juvenile deputy matron respectively.

EARL DOUCE

This is the twelfth and last of a series of stories on Marion county granges. The Grange has been an active and growing organization in this county, and has attracted the state Grange convention to Marion Dec. 8-12. Above is shown Earl Douce, master of Martel Grange, the latest addition to the county's grange family.

YOUTH LOSES DAMAGE SUIT

Jury Returns Verdict for Defendant in $15,000 Case Here.

A jury in common pleas court yesterday returned a verdict for the defendant in the $15,000 damage suit of Leroy Freshwater, 7, against William Woessner post office employe. The action was brought by Harry C. Freshwater, the father.

The suit resulted from an accident last Nov. 21 in which the Freshwater boy sustained a fractured skull and broken leg. Woessner was driving the post office car which struck the boy as the latter attempted to cross Church street at Orchard street.

The defense argued that the lad ran into the path of the machine and that Woessner did all in his power to avoid striking him. He swerved his car to one side in his efforts to avoid the accident, according to testimony.

For several days the boy was unconscious and did not fully recover his consciousness for more than a week, it was brought out from the stand.

The defense was represented by Grant E. Mouser, Sr., of the law firm of Mouser, Young, Mouser & Wiant, and by Howard Guthery of the law firm of Guthery, Strelitz & Guthery. Herman Kruger, Toledo federal court attorney, assisted the defense. The law firm of Carhart & Warner represented the plaintiff.

Answers Widow's Suit

That the death of W. B. Clark, former Marion Steam Shovel Co. employe was not caused by an injury sustained while working at the plant but instead was caused by the extraction of his teeth is claimed in an answer filed today in common pleas court by attorneys for the company in the suit of Addie L. Clark, widow, for workmen's compensation.

The answer claims that Clark's teeth were extracted on July 20, 1928 and that he became ill on Aug 16. He died Aug 22 of blood poisoning.

His widow claimed in her original petition for compensation that her husband died from the effects of an abscess caused when he was struck by the links of a crawler which was being removed from a steam shovel. The accident occurred Feb. 6, 1928.

Receiver's Report Approved

Final report of Russell Wilhelm receiver in the partnership dissolution of V. D. Benedict and C. B. Lehner, was approved by common pleas court today and the receiver discharged.

Settle Estate Suit

Suit of Cora Staley of Fostoria against J. Wilbur Jacoby as administrator of the estate of Clara Burton, deceased, was settled out of court today at the costs of the defendant. The plaintiff sought $120 from the estate. Wilhelm and Robinson were attorneys for the defendant and a Fostoria law firm represented the plaintiff.

Judgment of $120.69 is sought in an action brought today by the Credit Loan & Discount Co. against Daniel P. Truitt and Carl R. Haas. The plaintiff is represented by the law firm of Guthery, Strelitz & Guthery. The judgment is sought on a promissory note.

Court Appointments

Probate court has appointed William J. Miller as executor of the estate of Rosa Weinstein.

J. D. Williamson has been appointed administrator of the estate of Manford E. Selby.

BAND IS ACTIVE AT KANSAS CITY MEET

Marion County Group Participate in Program at Convention.

Marion county youths, comprising the only Future Farmers of America band in existence, last night took an active part in the program of the national convention of the Future Farmers of America association at Kansas City. The band is scheduled to appear several times in the program of the convention.

Associated Press dispatches from Kansas City report that David R. Johnson, 17, a Rutgers freshman of Lambertville, N. J., has been designated the outstanding student among the 30,000 American youths pursuing courses in vocational agriculture.

The honor brought with it a check for $1,000 presented by Gov. Henry S. Caufield of Missouri as an award from the Weekly Kansas City Star.

Information received here indicates the band has been given a splendid reception in Kansas City. The band members have been taken on tours of the city by various civic organizations and have been entertained since their arrival early this week.

Christian Scientists Hear New York Lecturer Here

Frank Bell, C. S. B., Addresses Congregation of Local Church; Speaker Is Member of Board of Lecturers of Mother Church in Boston.

Frank Bell, C. S. B., of New York City, urged his listeners in his lecture last night at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, here, to bring into their consciousness a correct understanding of God's perfect creation. Mr. Bell is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. Of particular interest were his remarks on "The Overcoming of Lack."

"Christian Science heals poverty in the same manner that sickness and sin are healed, through 'the renewing of the mind,' as St. Paul [illegible]. Inspired writers repeatedly have asserted that thought adjustment to the divine nature will bear fruit after its kind. Jesus gave the following rule for success when He said, 'Seek ye first the kingdom of [illegible] and all these things shall be added unto you.' This kingdom, the Master said, is 'within you' and 'at hand;' therefore the individual Christian has the right to feel that the essential completeness of reality is present, not absent, and only needs to be realized in order to be enjoyed.

Describes Poverty

"A divinely intelligent and loving Creator has not made a man to be impoverished any more than to be sick or sinful. Poverty, like disease and sin, involves a mistaken sense of God and His work. The evil quality of poverty is not that it makes men suffer but that it misrepresents God. The Christian aim in overcoming poverty, as in healing sickness and sin, is to the glory of God. Mere getting of money would not glorify God, but the demonstration of power over material things through spiritual understanding does 'magnify the Lord.' The writer of Genesis affirms that divine spirit has given man dominion over earthly things. Jesus proved this to be true and said His followers should do likewise.

"One who for many years had been distressingly limited in income or salary found himself trying vainly to use his early glimpses of Christian Science to enlarge the salary by some mysterious process. Finally he saw that what needed to be enlarged first was his understanding of man as God's image and likeness. It was his narrow, pinched sense of self that was bringing forth 'after its kind' in his personal experience. Cultivating a larger and more spiritual concept of God and man, as he learned to do in a perfectly natural way through the teachings of Christian Science, he soon found this clarified vision reflected in his affairs. Men and things began to manifest an unmistakable tendency to help rather than to hinder. Unexpected opportunities appeared and unsuspected capacities came to light. Human relationships became more fruitful of good, after the manner of true brotherhood.

Not For Material Things

"Christian Science cannot be used for the mere acquisition of money or other material things, but it is successfully employed to the overcoming of that abnormal sense of lack which is the result of ignorance of spiritual substance and which in turn bears fruit in human fear and poverty.

"Mastery of materiality is the secret of wealth and health. It is the mastery that comes to light in daily experience through the Christianly scientific cultivation of spiritual mindedness.

"Christian Science does not propose that reality shall be either ignored or changed. On the contrary, its entire aim and effort is to bring to light the actual nature and character of all things.

"Christian Science concurs in the Scriptural declaration that whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever; that nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it. As defined by its discoverer and founder, Mary Baker Eddy, on page [illegible] of her book Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, Christian Science is that 'with which can be discerned the spiritual fact of whatever the material senses behold.' The reality which is reflected all about us is misinterpreted by the personal senses.

"What is needed is not to disregard or to alter reality but so to correct the sense of things that the fact rather than the error shall be revealed. Christian Science accomplishes this correction through prayer, through spiritualization of thought, through the cultivation of a state of mind that rejects false physical sense testimony and accepts the spiritual truth.

Wants Pure Heart

"Jesus knew that the kingdom of heaven was 'at hand,' that it was a state of mind, and that one could be 'instructed into' it, as He said.

"The Christian Scientist, a follower of the Master, strives for that purity of heart which sees God, good, where impure material sense, impure because material, believes it sees that which is unlike good. In the degree that he succeeds in spiritualizing his thought he finds that this activity is fruitful of health and other abundances.

"The beginner in Christian Science may find something in his heart ridiculing his denial of physical sense testimony. But let him persist in his efforts to affirm the truth and reject the error, as a mater of systematic mental practice, and he will feel the invigorating effect of the readjustment of his thoughts to conformity with the divine nature."

HAD GAS SO BAD THAT IT NEARLY SMOTHERED HER

"I had gas so bad at times that it would wake me up of nights," says Mrs. A. P. Gentry, 5401 Drew Avenue, So., Minneapolis, Minn. "I would have a tight, swollen feeling and pains around the heart so I felt like I would smother.

"For over ten years I suffered terribly with indigestion. I tried many stomach remedies but got no real relief until I heard about Pape's Diapepsin and got some.

"It relieved me almost instantly. Now I have no trouble digesting anything. Even bananas agree, and they used to upset me every time. I seldom feel the least discomfort even after a hearty meal. But if I do, a tablet or so of Diapepsin has me all right in a minute or two."

No matter whether your suffering from indigestion, gas, belching, nausea, headaches, sour stomach, etc. is occasional or chronic, Pape's Diapepsin will bring you quick relief. These tasty tablets are harmless—can be eaten as often as needed.

All druggists sell them, or if you wish to try them before buying, write "Pape's Diapepsin," Wheeling, W. Va., for a sample box, FREE.

GETS $100 FINE

Mt. Gilead Youth Pleads Guilty to Driving Charge Here

William Babcock, 21, of Mt. Gilead was fined $100 and his driving rights were revoked for six months when he pleaded guilty in municipal court yesterday afternoon to a charge of driving while intoxicated. He changed a former plea while waiting for a hearing set for Thursday afternoon.

Wayne Fuller, 42, also of Mt. Gilead, was fined $10 when he pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge. He also pleaded not guilty when arraigned, but changed his plea.

Both were released when the fines were paid. A car owned by Earl D. Moon, of 555 South Prospect street, was damaged Monday night when struck by Babcock's Essex coupe.

Driver Sentenced on Charge of Intoxication

Fine of $25 was assessed Floyd Van Meter of Pomeroy when he pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge in municipal court yesterday afternoon. He changed a former plea to guilty. He was placed under a suspended 30-day workhouse sentence to guarantee payment of damages done an automobile owned by Richard Wallace in an accident in which Van Meter's automobile figured, according to police.

Van Meter's driving rights were suspended for six months.

Unable to pay the fine, Van Meter was taken to the county jail to work out his $25 fine and a previous fine of $15 assessed him on an intoxication charge.

Has Your Home This Modern Family Necessity?

A good radio is a necessity in every home. It broadens the mind—improves the faculties—provides a soothing influence for ruffled tempers and instills harmony in the lives of every member of the family. Good radios can now be had to suit the purse of anyone, and the easy terms of payment now offered by the best dealers make it easy for everyone to enjoy this modern influence for home betterment.

Mrs. Housewife works hard every day—harder perhaps than many husbands realize. With children going to school; meals to prepare; housework to do; laundry work; purchasing of home supplies; and a dozen and one other things that take up the hours and drain the vitality—there is need of a soothing influence like music to help rebuild her vitality. Much of the crossness; the unkind words spoken without thought; the deadly monotony; could be removed from life if there were the soothing influence of good music.

Radio programs as arranged these days, are suited to the mood of all. There is relaxation for mother during the day; there is sport and entertainment for father after a hard day's work in office or factory; entertainment, sports and culture for the children.

Every single member of the family benefits by the use of a good radio in the home. It keeps one abreast of the times. Political questions are debated on both sides. Sports are broadcast right from the field of play, enabling the owner of a good radio to obtain almost as much enjoyment as though right on the field himself.

Parents who are confronted with the problem of keeping the children off the street would have no problem if there were a good radio in the home. If the child is furnished with suitable entertainment in the home, the street will lose its appeal. Any good radio will provide suitable entertainment for the children, any hour of the day or evening. Let your youngsters enjoy a good radio in your own home.

WARNS HUNTERS

Beware of Rabbit Fever, Commissioner Tells Nimrods.

Now that Marion county hunters are scouring the hills and dales for the elusive bunny, they should take precautions against tularemia, or rabbit fever, Dr. N. Sifritt, city-county health commissioner, warned today.

Hunters, market men, housewives and others who handle wild rabbits should never touch a wild rabbit without wearing rubber gloves when handling the meat, he said.

The rabbit must be thoroughly cooked beyond a temperature of 137 degrees, and so well cooked that there is no red meat, nor any red juice near the bone.

A wild rabbit that seems sickly in its efforts to escape the hunter's gun should not be taken home but instead should be buried, according to the health commissioner.

Indian Summer

A MARION woman has been kind enough to [illegible] this city through its column on the subject of Indian Summer. Every one recognizes when the season arrives. But why it is called Indian Summer stumps most of them when they're pinned down and they have to give up and admit they'd heard their grandmothers say that the season has arrived.

According to this woman's [illegible] Indian summer in the United States is a period of warm weather late in autumn, usually characterized by a clear sky and by a hazy or smokey appearance of the atmosphere especially near the horizon. The name is derived from the custom of the Indians to use this time in preparation for winter by laying in stores of food, or from their belief that the season was brought by a wind blowing directly from the court of the Southwestern God.

Worthy of Aid

LIGHTNING may not strike twice in the same place but queer events occasionally do. That was proven to John H. Clark, teacher of a class of young men in the Epworth M. E. Sunday school recently.

Not long ago at the regular Sunday morning session of the class at Epworth church was featured by the presence of a queer looking fellow. The man was almost grotesquely garbed and wore a three weeks growth of beard. His clothes and face were soiled, indicating he had possibly "ridden the timbers" to Marion.

After the close of the regular class lesson, the leader called him to one side, asked him his circumstances, and subsequently gave him sufficient funds to purchase a breakfast.

A day or two ago, Mr. Clark passed through Terre Haute, Ind., on legal business. Stopping at a hotel in that city, he saw a strangely familiar face. This time it was shaven and clean, but the features were those of the class visitor a few weeks before. The man was in practically the same costume as he was when he visited the class here. Mr. Clark learned the man had picked up a temporary job at the hotel and was making his way in the world without the aid of Sunday school class assistance.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Nov. 20

A PROGRESSIVE and inspiring day is the forecast based upon the auspicious aspect of the luminaries assisted by the benign and gracious Venus orb of beauty, splendor, pleasure and harmony in powerful aspect with Luna. It is a time for forging ahead, especially in employment, where favors, preferment or advancement should be sought.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of advancement and favor from the hands of those in places of authority and influence, which should be sought with confidence. The personal equation largely enhances these prospects.

A child born on this day should be talented, efficient, popular, sociable and well fitted for a successful and happy life.

THE FRANK BROS. CO.

PORT PROVES UNPROFITABLE

Part-Time Employe Placed in Charge of City Landing Field.

Harvey P Lust who lives a quarter of a mile east of the Marion airport, has been employed as part-time superintendent of the port.

Operation of Marion's airport two and a half miles northwest of the city, has not proven sufficiently profitable to warrant the daily attention of a superintendent and pilot, officials of the port decided.

In fact the port has operated at a loss to the Sycamore Airport Co, which leased it from the city April 1 at $500 a year. The lease runs a year with the privilege of four additional years. It is understood that the lease will not be renewed April 1 next.

Hold Conference

An informal conference of city officials and officials of the Sycamore Airport Co recently revealed that the outlook for Marion's future as an air center is bleak. Several factors contribute to the present unpopularity of the airport, they decided.

First of all the port is not strategically located. That is the consensus of officials of both the city and the airport company. It is not on a highway where a barbecue stand or a filling station might enable the attendant to eke out a living in dimes and nickels when passengers and itinerant flyers were few. Large planes hesitate to land on the port or take off from its runways because of numerous hazards in the form of quarries, high tension electric wires and railroad tracks surrounding the port.

Second, Marion's ambitious efforts to become "airminded" have been unproductive of students and flying enthusiasts in sufficient numbers to make the port a operation profitable. Students have been few during the last few months, while passenger rides have decreased greatly in number.

Disposition Is Problem

Then, there are no prospects of Marion becoming a stopping place for either airmail or passenger transports in the near future.

What to do with the airport which has cost the city close to $25,000 to purchase and equip, has become a disturbing question around city hall. In fact council is said to be considering a means of keeping the port on the map until flying becomes more general.

Although what steps council will take in this direction are quite problematical, it is believed that Lust may be permanently employed.

Miss Marguerite Aldrich sang a solo. Guests were Irma Louise Drake, Annetta [illegible], Crystal Haynes and Mildred Long.

COLUMBUS MAN PREACHES

A large audience heard Rev. H. N. Shade of Columbus preach last night at Grace Evangelical church. Rev. Shade will preach every night this week except Saturday, at 7:30. He is giving a series of sermons on the tragedies of the Bible. Tonight he will preach on "The Tragedy of the Insufficient." Special music of instrumental numbers will be given tonight.

SOLICITOR QUITS POST

RICHWOOD, Nov. 19 – Other matters brought before the city council Monday night, besides the regular routine of business, was a contract with Perry Embody as village police. Attorney Roy Allen resigned as city solicitor to take up his duties of judgeship. The council room and mayor's office have been recently equipped for gas.

PASTOR WILL LEAVE

MT. GILEAD, Nov. 19 – Sunday, Rev. R. Shepley, pastor of the Bryn Zion Baptist church, tendered his resignation to the congregation. He has accepted the call of the First Baptist church of Princeton, Ill. Mr. Shepley leaves Mt. Gilead the last of November.

$348,000 TOTAL OF CLUB FUNDS

This Amount to Be Turned Over in District to Christmas Savers.

Approximately $348,000 will be placed on Christmas shopping trees in Marion and surrounding counties by the banks in these counties on or about Dec 1, according to figures released by the Ohio Bankers association.

Marion county banks will issue the greatest amount of checks, approximately 3,000, which will total $141,900. Crawford county is next in the district with 2,165 accounts totaling $102,900, while Hardin county is next with 969 accounts totaling $45,400.

Wyandot Has 1,111

Wyandot has 1,111 accounts amounting to $45,700, and Union is next with 169 accounts whose total is $7,500. Morrow is last with 56 accounts amounting to $1,000.

The Christmas club members in Hardin county will receive an average of $56.98 and those in Marion county will receive checks averaging $47.16. Crawford county's average is slightly higher than Marion with $47.52.

The $348,000 to be distributed in this district is part of the $25,000,000 to be distributed in 82 of the state's 88 counties. Cleveland leads the list of cities with 82,586 accounts valued at nearly $5,000,000.

A large portion of this vast sum will go into retail business channels.

Indicates Thrift

"The accumulation and release of approximately $25,000,000 by Ohioans through the banks of the state for Christmas purchases is of unusual signficance this year," David M. Auch, secretary of the state association, declared in a statement issued in conjunction with the figures. "It indicates a determined thrift on the part of depositors and assures a splendid effect on trade conditions throughout the state."

Auch declared that in handling the funds, the banks are performing a distinct service to both depositors and the business of their communities.

INITIATE CANDIDATE

Thirty-five members of Minnetonka Council No. 24, Degree of Pocahontas, motored to Upper Sandusky last night to initiate eight candidates for Solomon council No. 116. Solomon council presented the Marion degree team and captain, with a picture. Lunch was served.

The two little Indian children, Piyumsee, the little girl, and Peterteewat, the boy, cannot speak a word of English. The five adults, including the chief of the Hopi tribe, Chief Kotchovtewa meaning "Rope Out of a Bear Hide," speaks halting English.

Names of the other three men in the group are Chief Naseyumtewa, Kashwazra and Lomahatewa. The squaw's name is Joseahnema.

The program opened with four dances, including the famous snake dance. The other dances were the dance of evolution, the eagle dance and the buffalo dance for snow. The strange Indian headdresses were worn for each dance. Chief Kotchovtewa beat out the rhythm on a tom-tom.

Sing Home Song

The Home song of the tribe was sung, and then the auditorium reverberated to genuine Indian war whoops while four men danced the Victory War dance.

If the audience could have understood what the Indians were saying, the playlet might not have been half so funny. M. W. Billingsley explained it as an Indian legend of a quarrel between two lovers over the hand of a daughter of the Sun chieftian. The two suitors decided the matter by bow and arrow prowess and the son of the Snake chieftain won, which, according to legend, is the way in which the reunion of the Sun and Snake tribes was brought about.

Most interesting was the industrial display which followed the program proper. The audience was permitted on the stage to see more closely the display of Indian pottery, basket weaving, silver craft, India weaving, bead work and rug weaving. One of the Indian men was weaving a rug, and the squaw was placidly working away at what seemed an endless job of weaving a basket. The display was viewd by several hundred men, women and children.

Preceding the program, and in an intermission, films were shown of the group making its plea to Congress for the continuance of the old tribal rites, and presenting a silver necklace, one of the most precious adornments of the tribe, to Vice President Curtis. Other films showed the life of the Cliff and Pueblo dwellers.

On Friday night, Dec. 5, the entertainment course will bring Jessie Rae Taylor, impersonator, to Marion.

This afternoon the Indians gave a matinee performance for the school children of the city. After an appearance in Bellaire, the group will return to the reservation.

If you don't know about Tuesday, Nov. 25, just be on Main street on that date. There will be excitement galore.—Adv.

MARION PRINCIPAL TO LEAD DISCUSSION

Miss Elma B. Howser on Program for Teachers' Conference at Delaware.

Miss Elma B. Howser, principal of the Pearl Street school will be one of the leaders in a round table discussion to be held as one of the events of the Central Ohio Conference of Supervision and Teachers Training at Ohio Wesleyan university over the week-end. The meeting is a special session for elementary school principals and supervisors.

"How Can We Get a Practical Program of Supervision into Operation?" will be the general theme of the conference. Dr. George C. Kyte, author of several books on education and member of the school of education faculty at the University of Michigan, will speak at the opening session Friday morning on "Planning Help Involving Supervisory Visits to the Classroom." Dr. H. W. Nutt, of the Ohio Wesleyan department of education will lecture.

County superintendents of the state will hold a luncheon Friday noon when school heads will discuss their work. J. W. Whitmer of Toledo, superintendent of Lucas county schools, is chairman of the committee in charge of the luncheon.

A tour of the Ohio Wesleyan laboratory schools, demonstration schools and cooperative student-teaching centers near Delaware will occupy the Friday afternoon program.

The visiting teachers and administrators will be the guests of the Perkins Observatory Friday at 4:30 p. m. Dr. N. W. Storer of the astronomy department will lecture on "November Skies." The conference will close with a luncheon program Saturday noon.

It would be interesting to know if such claims could be substantiated, for what Gene was fighting.

The Golf Marvel Retires.

Having successively attained the four major golf honors during the past season, an achievement long believed impossible, Bobby Jones at twenty-eight retires from further participation in competitive events of a serious nature, the marvel of the links, past and present.

Five years ago with three major championships to his credit, it was the ambition of the young golfer to win three more. He did that in the two succeeding years, but he continued in major championship play, and retires the recognized master golfer of all time, with nine national and four international championships as evidence of his prowess, having this year added two of each classification to his previous list of nine victories—the open and amateur championships of both Great Britain and the United States.

The Georgian's decision to step down from the throne he alone has occupied was reached following his winning of the United States open at Interlachen. For years—even as far back as 1925—he has felt the strain of major championship competition, and with the passing years the strain has increased. With no more honors to be attained in the golfing world he very wisely determined to retire and devote his time and effort to the [illegible] golf only for recreational purposes. As he explained it in speaking of his retirement: "Looking at it in somewhat of a selfish way, I can't see where I could manage anything except something of an anti-climax after this year."

Thus Bobby Jones retires from championship play at the zenith of his golf fame. That he has entered into a contract with a picture producing corporation to appear in twelve one-reel educational films, showing the finer points of his game, is neither more nor less than good business judgment. It is estimated that the return to him from his movie engagement will be $250,000. A quarter of a million dollars is not to be sneezed at by a young attorney, no matter how popular he may be.

True the average span of life has been appreciably lengthened during the last two centuries and markedly so during the last decade or two. We do not mean by this that people are living much, if any, longer than they did a decade ago, but that the average length of life has been increased largely through progress made in guarding the health of infants. To sanitation and sanitary methods, however, not all of this increase in the average length of life can be attributed. A large measure of credit must go to the advancement in medicine and surgery and a better understanding on the part of the public of the rules of proper living.

Unquestionably safeguarding against diseased or poisoned foodstuffs and sanitation and the employment of sanitary methods in preparing and handling foodstuffs have combined to work for the public health and are worth all they have cost and are costing, but, candidly, we can not help but feel that the microbe theory has been greatly overdone. If the menace of germs is all it has been painted by some of the scientific enthusiasts on the subject, the probabilities are that not a single, solitary one of us would be alive today for the very simple reason that our ancestors would have been wiped out by germs 10,000 years ago.

The loss of its great fullback, Savoldi, to Notre Dame was inevitable in the light of his proceeding to annul his marriage. Catholic educational institutions do not make athletics paramount to the laws of their church.

A Permit and a Corkscrew.

Speaking before a gathering in Houston, Texas, a few days since, Ben H. Spence, Washington representative of the Toronto Star, made a point which those who look upon the Canadian handling of the liquor problem as closely approaching the ideal may well consider.

Stating that the claims for successful control in Canada is disputed by evidence of increased drinking among the young and other evils, the representative of the Canadian paper declared that Canada's "flaming youth" was not unlike the younger generation here in the United States, the chief difference between Canadian liquor control and prohibition in this country being that liquor in Canada is easier of access to youth. It was here he made the point which has heretofore escaped general attention: "First we forbid by our anti-liquor laws for minors, and then make it—liquor—obtainable by our system of control under which it is actually government controlled only when the bottles are on the shelves with the corks in them. That control does not extend to the same bottles after issuance and corks have been pulled."

In other words all that is necessary to circumvent government control in Canada and accomplish the diversion of liquor therefrom is a permit and a corkscrew.

Still Canadian youth may consider the American method of buying from a bootlegger more expeditious and less troublesome, especially so since it is never difficult to locate a bootlegger up there. As a matter of fact, they are self locating.

FIGHT THIS LAW THROUGH!

The automobile drivers' license law sponsored by the Ohio Automobile association will be brought before the next legislature. The measure has been approved as legally sound by the attorney general and petitions initiating both the license law and a motor responsibility measure will be circulated, beginning today, by automobile clubs in all counties. Approximately 60,000 signatures will be required on these petitions. Motor clubs and responsible drivers should see to it that the necessary total is exceeded.

The drivers' license law as proposed embodies the essential features of the model law drawn up by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety and urged by the National Safety council. It provides for suspension or revocation of the right to drive for habitual carelessness, recklessness, drunken driving, failure to report accidents, physical or mental disability, flagrant neglect of defective equipment and other causes through which, as the records show, eighty per cent. of all accidents are caused by five per cent. of those operating cars.

As has proved to be more satisfactory in states with similar laws the license and responsibility measures would be administered by a state director of motor vehicles with deputies in the counties. When the measure goes into effect drivers who can show satisfactory operation of a motor vehicle for one year or more will be eligible to license without examination at the discretion of the authorities. This will save the trouble and expense of examining the many thousands of competent drivers now using the highways. Revocation of license, which under the proposed law can not be reconsidered within a year, will tend to weed out the incompetent and incorrigible.

The license law clause providing for examination of all new drivers who apply for permits is essential. It is in the proposed measure and must be kept there. Otherwise the number of undesirable, thinned by revocation, is constantly recruited. Invariably intense pressure is brought on legislatures considering license laws to omit examination of new drivers and to shorten periods of suspension. If this pressure is yielded to, the license certificate becomes of little more significance than an identification card.

The safety-responsibility measure provides for three-year revocation of permits in case a driver fails after thirty days to satisfy legal judgments for property damage, injury or death for which he is responsible. He could not regain his license except on proving his responsibility for damage up to a reasonable point. As protection to the lives and property of citizens endangered by irresponsible motorists a law of this kind has long been needed.

Despite the success of stringent license and responsibility laws in other states of large motor registration, Ohio has lagged in this respect. The state now has an opportunity to come abreast of them at one step.—Cincinnati Enquirer, November 17.

Once a Great Wheat Port.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Coming of the Ohio canals brought prosperity to every city, town and hamlet touched by them, and that influence did not cease to be felt until the canals were virtually put out of business by the coming of the railroad. But probably there was not another municipality in the state which added so much as was added in the way of prosperity as the village of Milan in Erie county.

Milan had a little canal of its own connecting with Lake Erie. The old line of this waterway still is to be seen or was some years ago, when the writer journeyed that way, but it has not been used for more than a century, and Milan is known nationally, where it is now known at all, as the birthplace of Thomas A. Edison.

Though it brought water transportation only fifteen miles nearer to the wheat fields of northern Ohio, this was sufficient to convert the little village for the time into the greatest shipping center in the United States. Neither Chicago nor the great agricultural district now contributary to it were then developed and wheat grown in Ohio, even as far south as Columbus, was hauled in wagons from the farms to Milan, there to be loaded on the light draft lake vessels of the day for shipment to the east and to Europe.

When traffic was at its best it is said that so many wagons lined up at the unloading places in Milan that it was necessary to maintain a patrol to keep them in line and prevent the [illegible] first traffic jam and problem met by the state. But among the first railroads built in the state connected the Ohio wheat fields with the lake at Sandusky and the glory of Milan began to depart [illegible] Edison was not born until 1847 so by the time he saw the place it had probably settled back into the quiet life of a country village.

It Seems That Way.

Epidemic "Scare" and Children.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

From time to time during the school year, every mother is frightened by talk of epidemics. Dreadful stories are told about the prevalence of measles, mumps, whooping cough, grippe, perhaps scarlet fever, diphtheria, or infantile paralysis. Her natural impulse under such circumstances is to take her child out of school. She does this in the desperate attempt to get him away from the danger of contagion.

As a matter of fact, in most cases, certainly, the school is the very safest place for the child. There his health is carefully watched. If any disease is prevalent the teachers are on the alert to discover the first symptoms. It is safe to say that every possible precaution will be taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

At one time it was a very common practice to close schools in time of epidemics. This may still be necessary or advisable in some cases, possibly, but that is a matter for the local school and health authorities to decide. Ordinarily it is best to have the children pursue their regular routine.

If care is taken to exclude from school all children who show any signs of illness the others are in no more danger than they would be elsewhere in the community. They are far safer than they would be if kept home from school and then allowed to go to the movies or the theater or to ride in the street cars, or even to play with other children.

In a modern, well-run school constant attention is paid to proper sanitation and ventilation. Exercise, rest, recreation, even nutrition, are all under trained supervision. As a result, not only is the danger of infection minimized, but the general health of the children is so cared for that they are in the best possible condition to resist disease. It is as unwise to interfere with this health program as it is unfortunate to interrupt the program of study.

When a child is sick, however, it is the duty of the mother to cooperate with the school authorities to protect the health of others. To do this it is important to learn to recognize disease at its first appearance. If any one of the ailments of childhood is prevalent in the community special attention should be paid to symptoms that at another time might be dismissed as "just a cold."

A flushed face, running nose, sickness at the stomach or feeling of discomfort or restlessness is likely to be one of the first signs that something is wrong. The safe thing to do then is to put the child to bed at once and to call the family doctor.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

C. M. C. Q.—What would cause a sharp, shooting pain around the heart?

2.—What will remove a seed wart under the eye?

A.—This may be due to heart trouble, neuralgia or gas pains. Have an examination so that definite treatment may be outlined. In the meantime watch your diet and keep the system clear.

2. It would be best to see a skin specialist about this blemish since it is so near the eye.

W. P. M. Q.—What can be done for nervous exhaustion?

A.—Complete rest and the best of nourishing foods are advisable. Deep breathing and lots of fresh air and sunshine are also important. However, you should be under the care of a physician who will prescribe the suitable medical treatment. Copyright, 1930, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Cardan.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

One of the [illegible] figures in the history of science and in the field of biography is Girolamo Cardan, who is known as Cardan. Although a mathematician of eminence, Cardan reaped unjustly the credit due to another for discovering a solution of the general cubic equation. In histories of mathematics it is still customary to speak of this solution as Cardan's, although it is well known that he acquired it from Tartaglia and published it with barefaced effrontery as his own.

The second [illegible] attached to Cardan is associated with the art of biography. His [illegible] autobiography, De Vita Propria Liber, [illegible] as fascinating as a novel and may be [illegible] a landmark in that field. [illegible] specimen of self-analysis [illegible] of a brain of the first order engaged in examining itself and its functions [illegible], Cardan nevertheless gives a [illegible] and intimate picture of himself, which made a profound impression upon his age and gained a permanent place for itself [illegible]

Cardan was born [illegible] in 1501. Like Cellini, the Florentine, Cardan lived a life of adventure, full of exciting incident and disgraceful episodes.

Both [illegible] writing extraordinary autobiographies and both lived beyond the age of seventy [illegible] contributions to both art and science.

Cardan's father was well acquainted with the works of Euclid, and was a great student. Cardan's boyhood was passed in wretched circumstance, which he finally surmounted triumphantly. A doctor by profession, he studied at universities in both Pavia and Padua, but the first forty years of his life were largely lived in hardship and struggle. Finally these efforts were crowned with success and he became, it has been said, the most popular fashionable and sought-after physician in northern Italy. He effected some extraordinary cures, which he describes fully in a chapter in his autobiography entitled "Successes in My Practice."

Cardan was a man of exceptional versatility and wrote on many different subjects. He lists scores of books he had written on medicine and philosophy, on mathematics and astronomy, on art and literature, on the immortality of the soul and on games of chance. He was an inveterate gambler for the greater part of his life and lost an uncalculated amount at play. In an introduction to "The Book of My Life," Jean Stoner says: "Cardan's busy brain produced enough to fill 7,000 pages of folio. * * * With the exception of a few treatises in the vernacular, the entire body of his literary work is in Latin. Many of his books ran through six or seven editions."

For eight years Cardan occupied the chair of medicine at the University of Bologna. For a time he gave public lectures on mathematics at Milan, and later he was called to a professorship at the University of Pavia. His great work was entitled "Ars Magna," and was a comprehensive algebra, embodying a great mass of useful processes and formulas.

Certain special types of the cubic equation had been solved in Cardan's epoch, notably one by Scipione del Ferro and another by Nicolo Tartaglia. Cardan was inquisitive about Tartaglia's claim to discovering a method for solving the general cubic equation, and finally enveigled Tartaglia into explaining it to him.

In 1545, Cardan published this method in his "Ars Magna," without mention of Tartaglia. Cardan has his defenders, however, and his publication was said to have been in the interest of science, since Tartaglia was very secretive and would not have given his discovery to the world.

Cardan, for all his ability, was not a little of a scoundrel, and his piratical conduct would find no justification today. But it can not be denied that in that age the publication of scientific results, whatever the attribution of discovery, greatly furthered the development and progress of science.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Nov. 19.—The yelp of "Author!" after a stirring first night no longer [illegible] a confused and blinking playwright to footlights. Even Belasco who stood expectantly in wings for hired hands to drag him out for a bow grows reluctant. Authors have become shy. Rabbits.

Today they hide out at premieres [illegible] occupy back seats in the balcony. Others [illegible] and [illegible] at stage doors for information from inside. Still others do [illegible] near the theater. A few wait to read reviews at breakfast. George S. Kaufman, [illegible] takes bows with the cast as an actor [illegible] own play.

In the Clyde Fitch era the playwright [illegible] immaculate evening dress was usually [illegible] most conspicuous chair in the right hand box. As the final curtain fell, the spotlight was turned on him and the star graciously [illegible] him over the footlights to the stage.

There in feigned abashment he delivered [illegible] apparently impromptu speech which had [illegible] so carefully rehearsed as the play itself [illegible] generally frosted with cleverly turned phrases, epigrams and mots and often at the finish was lifted on shoulders for a rafter-shaking cheer.

Modesty plays a part in the present [illegible] dence but a bigger reason is the sense [illegible] wright is out of tune with facing crowds [illegible] has come frequently from a calling remote [illegible] the theater and its stagey poise. He does [illegible] care to make a fool of himself.

Gifted actors often can not spark [illegible] spontaniety of an impromptu speech when [illegible] curtain falls. They have addled lines and [illegible] the stage in utter bewilderment. Best remembered curtain speeches were those of Richard Mansfield, Kyrle Bellew and [illegible] Skinner.

But one widely discussed and oft-referred was that of young George Kelly. He was suddenly whisked to the stage after a first [illegible] and stood baffled and mumbling. A [illegible] shouted "Louder!" Kelly, flippantly below [illegible] usual Olympian heights shrieked: "It isn't important."—and rushed off.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Nov. 19—It's the navy whose sartorial elegance knocks 'em cold at the brilliant official and social functions in the capital.

The seadogs' long dress coats with brass buttons, encircled with golden sword belts and cocked hats that would have made John Paul Jones green with envy, have them completely outclassed.

Take, for example, the case of Admiral Pratt and General Summerall. One is the chief of naval operations, the other is chief of staff of the army. Look them over as they set out, say for the White House, to attend the annual New Year reception.

Admiral Pratt is gold-braided from wrist to elbow. All the distinctions he rates are in evidence. But not General Summerall. About all the finery he displays are the four stars on either shoulder and an inch-wide black band on his sleeve to denote his military premiership.

* * *

General Summerall could, if he so chose, wear a many-buttoned double-breasted coat, gold epaulets and sword belt, and a very fine feathered cocked hat. But the army doesn't seem to care for that sort of thing.

As a matter of fact, an army dress uniform in the capital is among the rarest things one can imagine. They are relics of pre-world war days. And although two years ago an order was isued restoring them to use, few have the courage to venture out with them on.

The reason is simple. Most army officers don't possess a dress uniform. The larger percentage of the present commissioned army came in after the World war.

The old-timers, who in their younger days dressed up in the swanky, two-shade combination, with open face effect, gold shoulder knots and highly-colored lapels and scampered off to a regimental mess or army "hop," have had this regalia in moth balls too long to resume it with any confidence.

And to purchase a new outfit requires $[illegible] or more—enough said.

* * *

Ever so often, however, the old army [illegible] is dragged out of its musty resting place by an officer and put on with a show of courage. Just recently a dashing bachelor major invited to attend a rather swanky affair, brought [illegible] to light. With a sad shake of his head [illegible] told of his experience.

"I got my dress coat up to my shoulders [illegible] collar hooked, and the top fastening in place. He was a slim and dapper lieutenant back in 1917. But right there I quit.

"Those coats were a snug fit when made. I had to use a buttonhook to couple 'em up in front even then. Now with the top [illegible] caught, the rest of the coat draped around me like a senator's cutaway.

"Too bad. That coat cost me sixty [illegible] and I've worn it only three times. A new one would set me back $1[illegible] or more. And what assurance have I if I order a new one from my tailor that an order won't come down in a year or two requiring a new model.

"No, sir. It's O. D. for me."

CONGRESS PLAN STIRS UP FIGHT

Reapportionment Proposal To Meet Opposition in Next Session.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—A fight will be waged in congress to prevent reapportionment of the house of representatives on the basis of figures announced by President Hoover, it was learned today.

Backers of the movement, it is understood, will make an effort to enlarge the present house membership of 435 with a view to preventing any state from losing members, it is expected.

The Hoover figures gave gains to some states, losses to others. Ohio is given an increase of two congressmen.

The opponents of the new reapportionment face an uphill fight. When the present reapportionment law was passed, after a long struggle, it was provided that if congress fails to change the law, then the reapportionment shall become automatic.

A filibuster led by representatives of state such as New York, California, Michigan and Florida, all of which will gain members under the new reapportionment, could block action.

Representative Fenn, Republican of Connecticut, chairman of the house census committee, said the house leadership will have to lay down a policy, but indicated that he favors blocking of all action and an automatic reapportionment.

Speaker Nicholas Longworth and other house leaders have taken a decided stand against increasing the size of the house, which has been proposed as a method of preventing any state from losing its present representation.

Proposals have been made to raise the size of the house up from 472 to 500.

Cities and the wets will gain strength in the house under the reapportionment, based upon the census of 1930, while rural sections will lose representation.

return for his freedom and he denied he had paid them anything.

Hurford said he was unable to explain why he was kidnaped. Released form his captors' automobile at 3 a. m., Hurford was arrested for investigation by a Chetopa policeman. Although unharmed, he appeared somewhat dazed, Chetopa officers said, and his identity was not established until they found his Oklahoma hunting license in a pocket of his clothing.

Seemingly none the worse for the experience, Hurford told of the episode last night as he sat in the living room of his luxurious home. He was still wearing the hunting clothes in which he was dressed Sunday night when he and Mrs. Hurford returned home to be met by two men, one of them masked, who forced Hurford at the point of a sawed-off shotgun, to accompany them.

Hurford said he was tightly blindfolded immediately after leaving his home and he did not know where he was taken. They drove all night, he said, most of the next day and until 3 a. m., in the following morning when he was put out of the car at Chetopa.

CONFESSES SLAYING 2 MEN IN QUARREL

Cincinnati Man Wounds Another in Shooting; Feud Blamed.

By United Press

BELLEVUE, Ky., Nov. 19—Breaking under police questioning Samuel Kelly, 47, Cincinnati, admitted to detectives here today that he shot and killed Edward and John Gallagher, brothers, and seriously wounded Francis, another brother, as the climax of a quarrel in a shack at the outskirts of the city early this morning.

"They treated me rough," was Kelly's only explanation of the shooting.

The Gallagher brothers lived together in the shack. Edward, 55, was a former city commissioner. John was 60. Francis, 45, wounded over the heart, refused to discuss the shooting until informed his brothers had been killed.

"Sammy Kelly did it," he said. He was unable to talk further.

Police were inclined to blame an old feud for the tragedy though the cause was vague.

Dr. Stengel Speaks at Sycamore Meeting

Dr. F. A. Stengel of South State street was guest speaker at the annual rabbit supper of the Berean class of the Sycamore Reformed Sunday school, last night. Dr. Stengel gave his illustrated talk and experiences of his trip through the west, including scenes from the petrified forest, Canyon De Shelly, Grand Canyon, California and Yellowstone National parks. He is treasurer of the American Optometric association and a member of the Ohio State Board of Optometry.

James M. Cox Jr. To Wed Friday in New York City

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—James M. Cox Jr., 27, of Trailsend, O., son of the former governor of Ohio and Miss Helen H. Rumsey, 24, of New York will be married in St. Bartholomew's church Friday.

Cox gave his occupation as a publisher. Miss Rumsey is the daughter of Lee Rumsey, son of the founder of the Rumsey Manufacturing Co.

ON HONEYMOON

Relative of Sec. Mellon and Bride Start Belated Journey.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 18—W. L. Mellon Jr., grand nephew of Secretary Andrew W. Mellon, was on a belated honeymoon today, with his wife, the former Grace Rowley. Their destination as much a secret as was their elopement for more than a year, the couple left Pittsburgh last night thus cancelling whatever plans might have been held for a second wedding ceremony.

Elmer H. Rowley, Pittsburgh business man and Mrs. Rowley, parents of the bride, made known cancellation of the elaborate ceremony originally planned for this afternoon. Members of the highest society circles of Pittsburgh had been preparing for weeks for the occasion.

After the couple surprised their parents with the revelation that they were married Nov. 16, 1929, at Wellsburg, W. Va., consideration had been given momentarily to the possibility of holding a second ceremony.

Tax Payments To Start Here After Dec. 15

Marion county taxpayers probably will have no opportunity to pay their taxes until Dec. 15, County Treasurer Bert J. Shelton said today.

Delay in making up tax rates due to special levies which were voted upon at the Nov. 4 election is given by Shelton as the reason for holding up the collection.

The rates were completed last week by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas and were subsequently aproved by the state tax commission. Attaches of the auditor's office now are busy making up assessments which must be figured before any collections can be made, Shelton said.

Wesleyan President To Address Grads

Dr. Edmund H. Soper, president of Ohio Wesleyan university, will be a guest of the Marion County Alumni association of Ohio Wesleyan university at the bi-ennial dinner tonight at 6:30 at Hotel Harding. Dr. Soper will give the address of the evening. Officers for the year will be elected.

Appointments are so disagreeable that only grim necessity makes people keep them.

LAD WANTS HOME

Judge Gast Looking for Family To Take Boy for Winter.

Marion families who desire to give a home this winter to a seven-year-old boy are urged to get in touch with Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast.

The youth's parents cannot be located and his relatives have been forced, through economic stress, to return him to the Children's Home, whose capacity is taxed to the limit, according to Judge Gast.

The lad is not the only one whom the court wishes to place in a home.

Although the court's wards are available for adoption, families which wish to keep them through the winter months or longer may do so without adopting them, Judge Gast said.

RED CROSS MEETS

Routine Business Transacted; Smart Stresses Annual Roll Call

Routine business was transacted when the executive board of the Marion Red Cross chapter met in its headquarters in the Uhler-Phillips building last night. Report of Miss Margaret Dowd, secretary, for activities of the month, was given.

Chairman Earl Smart stressed the importance of the annual roll call, now under way in the county, pointing to the need of funds for the national organization to carry out the extensive program for the coming year.

WHEN CHILDREN CRY

CHILDREN often cry for no apparent reason. Many times we can't guess what is wrong. The crying may mean a touch of colic; the little bowels may be sluggish—or some other upset. It may mean any of the common little ailments that children suffer. To bring quick comfort to your little one, give a few drops of Castoria. Most upsets of children are soon soothed away by this pleasant-tasting remedy that children all love.

In five million modern homes, Castoria is a mother's first thought when a child is out of sorts, feverish, cross, doesn't eat right or sleep right. When bad breath, coated tongue, or languor tells of constipation. These five million wise mothers know that children should never be given stronger medicines meant for the fully developed systems of grown-ups. Castoria is gentle—safe, yet always thorough and effective for a child of any age. It may be given to the tiniest infant for any little upset. When buying, look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.

Defiance

FANNY'S refusal to be discouraged at the loss of [illegible] raised David's drooping spirits.

"Irving Bush, a man I knew in college [illegible] from Seattle. He says [illegible] booming [illegible] of opportunities going to waste."

"Darling—how heaven-sent! The Finger of Fate. Oh David let's [illegible] there. It would be glorious. You and I and Sheila so far away, all by ourselves."

"It isn't a thing to be [illegible] a minute. I'd have to start again at the bottom probably."

"What of it? I'll be [illegible] the worse for it. It wouldn't be half so hard to be poor in a place where nobody knew us."

On the other hand, [illegible] ward gave [illegible] that Uncle [illegible] a month if I went back to the bank."

"Would that mean living with your mother?"

"I suppose so."

Fanny shivered. She might, Fanny told herself, have worked it out some way if she had stayed at David's mother's. But never now. She had known the joys of independence for four years; she could not adapt herself to even a mild tyranny.

"Do you want to go back to the bank [illegible]

[illegible]

"Irving [illegible] seattle [illegible]

[illegible] faraway [illegible]

"It's a [illegible] to go home and live with [illegible] Fanny continued [illegible] is to [illegible] have to take the consequences."

"Well, if you're willing to take a chance [illegible]. All those in favor of moving to Seattle vote [illegible]"

"Aye," shouted Fanny at the top of her voice. "Aye," [illegible] came from the kitchen, [illegible] a new game. "The ayes seem to have it," laughed David excitedly.

They danced about the room like a nymph and faun, spirits renewed by their youthful optimism. David's natural caution was balanced by an overactive imagination. Now even while he cautioned Fanny not to expect too much he was visioning himself as superintendent of some large western clay plant, as manager, general manager, owner . . .

"Fan, you've been a brick. I haven't said much about it, but it's taken the heart out of me to see you working so hard, doing without every pretty thing you wanted."

"But I haven't minded, David."

"Darling girl!" He kissed her hand. "We have been happy here, but anyone as beautiful as you ought to have a beautiful setting."

"Do you really think I am beautiful, David?"

"Of course I do, goose. Haven't I told you so a thousand times?"

David, after several days of hesitation and a great despatching of telegrams and letters and a greater weighing of pros and cons, definitely decided to move to Seattle. Money had been borrowed, notice given to their landlord and the packing began before the family discovered what they were up to. Then the storm broke.

"It's the fool Frost blood," raged David's uncle. The threat of an actual move to the western coast had upset Mr. Brownbeck more than he cared to own, and he had sent for his nephew with the intention of making him so good an offer that he could not refuse it. The $300 a month might easily have been raised to $400—even more—if David had kept his temper and had been willing to swallow a mouthful of humble pie.

"Does it mean that we have to go home to live with Mother if I come back to the bank?"

"Any son," answered Mr. Brownbeck, avoiding David's eye, "any son with a decent sense of responsibility would be ashamed to let his old mother go down on her knees begging for permission to make her home with him."

"Mother isn't really old nor is she homeless."

"Whether you like it or not your mother has to be looked out for and you are the logical one to do it. She has one of the handsomest houses in town—I can't for the life of me understand why you get so hot under the collar at the idea of going there to live."

"I am not het up. But I believe every woman has a right to her own home. Mother's so blamed set in her ways, so darn determined. It isn't fair to ask Fanny to live with her."

"Fanny," he growled viciously. "Always Fanny. We used to be a reasonably peaceful family before she came into it. Now we're about as peaceful as a hornet's nest."

"If Fanny makes trouble in this family the sooner I take her away the better." David said and picked up his hat.

"You're a fool, like your father before you. All the Frosts are fools. I had thought to make something of you—"

"I'd rather make something of myself." David marched out without a backward glance.

"That's what I had planned to do this year," my father said. "I've been thinking that Junior is old enough to appreciate some of the Dickensian phraseology."

"And because you've been such good boys," I continued, "I'm going to let you have a few pieces of the Christmas candy as an extra dessert. But you must promise not to get yourselves or the couch sticky."

Jubilee's Pardner

* * *

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

COLD but not so very cold when I woke up this morning and let Jubilee down by his rope. I think a fella that has got a warm dog to sleep with is lucky, but the dog is lucky too.

Today was Wednesday and when I had got my cows milked and went in to feed my face whilst the bunch waited outside my grandfather was setting in the rocking chair by the stove and when he went to get up to go to the table he grunted and then he put his hand to his back and groaned and my father said "What's the matter Squire?" And my grandfather said it was some more of his blankety-blank plumbago, so I made a jump for him and got hold of his arm to help him up and when he was half way up and I was hanging onto him to help him and backing up I fell over Annabelle Lee and pulled my grandfather over on top of me, and I had to jerk him sideways to keep him from falling on Annabelle Lee. But we both missed her, though she was so scairt that she bellered and my grandfather laid on the floor and groaned and we all helped him up. He wouldn't go and lay down but set down to eat, and he said a lot of the things my mother don't like to have me hear. But I was glad to hear them because a fella never can tell if he might be old some time and have plumbago.

[illegible] was looking sorry but my ant and she had her hand over her mouth trying to hide her grin. My father blamed me because he fell, but my grandfather said I meant all right and he would rather anyone would throw him down than laugh at him. I helped him to the lounge when he had fed his face. Then I filled his pipe and gave him a match and the pipe stuck straight up out of his face and some of the tobacco fell in his eyes so I got my hat and skun out. I snuck his pipe out after school and went out to the barn to practice smoking so that the next time I could light it for him. The bunch had skun out to have some fun when I told them I was going to stay home. I heard [illegible] holler my name but I didn't answer her. I couldn't. I was laying acrosst the feed box with my head hanging down on one side and my feet on the other. She lifted my head and looked at me and then she ran in the house and told my mother the cow had kicked me clear acrosst the barn and I was laying acrosst the feed box with my back or something broken and I was dying. My mother and ant came racing out there and the first thing my mother saw was my grandfather's pipe laying on the floor and then she knew what was the matter. When they got me in the house on the lounge and I told her why I smoked she loosened my collar, and when my father came she wouldn't let him lick me, and he wanted to because he had to milk. She said I am a good boy. I am, but I haven't got much sense.
